

Data: Lunedì 31 marzo 2008, 11:52

Dear Madam,

my name is Dr.Eicken and I coordinate treatment for children with congenital heart disease here at the German Heart Center Munich. Your child definitely has a difficult heart defect. There is no simple solution. Whether or not we could treat your daughter would depend of examinations. I think for a final recommendation we would need a transesophageal echo, maybe a MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) and a cardiac catheterization. For these diagnostic procedures you would have to come with your daughter to our clinic for 3-4 days. Mr Hasenkopf can tell you about the costs. Probably between 3000-4000 Euros. After that we can see, if we would have a surgical option for your child. An operation would approximate 35.000 Euros. Yours sincerely
A.Eicken

PD Dr.Andreas Eicken